Refrigerators and freezers, in addition to many other product categories, are designated as TopTen by the non-profit TopTen USA™. TopTen USA™ is an organization whose mission is to identify and publicize the most energy-efficient products available in an effort to make it easy for consumers to save energy and money.

TopTen USA™'s approach to identifying the most energy-efficient products is independent, rigorous and transparent, and varies by product category. The key criterion for listing is energy efficiency, but—depending on the type of product—may also include environmental, health and safety concerns.

TopTen USA™ updates its list of products every four to six months. For a complete listing of TopTen USA™ ranked products and to learn more, visit TopTenUSA.org.
