City of Boston
Mayor Michelle Wu

DEAR BOSTON PROPERTY OWNER,

Winter is here, which means it's the time of year we have to prepare for colder days and often higher bill payments. Many of us, myself included, have to clean our gutters, have our pipes checked, or seal any cracks that may let the cold in. One thing you can do right now to help keep your home warm and lower your energy usage: request a no-cost Home Energy Assessment at MassSave.com/Boston or by calling (857) 376-6220.<sup>1</sup>

The Mass Save® Community First Partnership is a collaboration between the City of Boston, Eversource and National Grid. We're working together to provide cost-saving energy efficiency upgrades for you.

During your assessment, an energy specialist will evaluate your energy use and identify ways to save. Through the Mass Save energy efficiency programs, you may be able to receive:

- No-cost air sealing improvements
- 75%-100% off approved insulation upgrades – insulation can help keep heat in during the winter
- Up to $16,000 in heat pump rebates – heat pumps can efficiently heat and cool your home
- 0% financing (up to $50,000) for energy efficiency upgrades, including heat pumps
- No-cost energy-saving products like programmable thermostats, water-saving devices, advanced power strips, etc.
- No-cost options if you or your tenants qualify as low-income

Are you concerned about your utility bill? Visit the City's energy affordability webpage at boston.gov/energy.

Together we can save energy and money, make our buildings more comfortable, and advance sustainability in our community.

Best Regards,

Rev. Mariama White-Hammond
